TRAIL NOTES

Created in the early 1900s, the 1000 Steps Walk was originally made from the frunks of tree ferns laid along the wetter areas of the track to make the 290 metre ascent somewhat easier. These have been replaced by a combination of wooden steps and concrete section over time to ensure that the track can cater for users year round in all weather.

Track is gravel and dirt with a lot of formed steps used by many for fitness training. Reasonable fitness required. Expect trail to be busy. Once at the top you can take the Lyrebird Track, which makes a great return circuit, or continue on approximately 800m to One Tree Hill.
